47 U.S.C. Section 160(c); WC Docket No. 18-141; Category 1

Dear FCC,

I think you should do your job and serve all Americans and not just a couple of large telecommunications companies. Competition is good for keeping prices down and quality high. I subscribe through Sonic.net in California, a company that has promised its subscribers it will maintain net neutrality. I use Sonic both at home and at my place of business, and their service is so much better than Comcast and AT&T, which I used to subscribe to. I like having the competition in the marketplace, it serves all consumers. Please don't bow down to pressure from the large companies, listen to consumers as well.

Thank you.
